Jacqueline Tadaka is a great disappointment to us. She was born into a poor family on Kurhah, one of our planets on the border with the Republic. At a young age she turned to a life of crime and quickly made a name for herself among the local yakuza. Over several years, she worked her way up through the ranks until her worth and natural aptitude for piloting a BattleMech allowed her to enter one of our Ghost Regiments. House Kurita established these units as a way to capitalize on the talents of the Combine's underworld, people like

Jacqueline Tadaka, who would never be allowed in a normal military unit. As a member of an all yakuza unit, she has been extremely effective in the service of the Coordinator.

In the chaos, greed, and pettiness in the aftermath of the communications blackout, however, Jacqueline actually defected to the Republic. What's worse, she has sided with the Swordsworn faction, effectively throwing away her past to sleep with the enemies of the Dragon, House Davion. What might have caused this defection is unknown at this time. However, many of her new brothers-in-arms only see a traitorous snake and refuse to believe her defection sincere; this can be used to our advantage.

The Legionnaire was one of the last new designs to be mass-produced by the Achernar BattleMechs factory of the Federated Suns, before the plant was scaled back after the formation of the Republic. The FS736-04K played a pivotal role in the third battle of New Avalon, when WoB forces tried once again to destroy the head of House Davion. Along with three other Legionnaires, this 'Mech used its incredible speed to good effect to harass the attacking left flank as the enemy attempted to ford the Thames river and gain a foothold on the Isle of Avalon. The attacking force was so disorganized by their assault that a concerted counterattack broke their momentum, and the WoB were finally forced off-planet.

As with so many designs, its MechWarrior followed Devlin Stone into the Republic, where it finally found its way to Jacqueline. After her first battle, she named it "Tsunami."
