Evading pursuit himself, Broll managed to make planetfall on a world with a Wolf settlement on it, and appealed to the Wolves for admittance into their Clan. Like most such applicants, he lost in a Trial of Combat against a Wolf warrior, but his drive to win led the Wolf to accept him as a bondsman.

When the Wolf Lancers were formed, Broll's below-average testing prevented him from regaining the command of a 'Mech, but he earned a slot as a tank commander instead, and was assigned to one of the Steel Wolves' newly minted JES III Missile Carriers.

Like most other Wolf Lancers, Broll is abtakha, a warrior taken in from outside the Clan. Though Clan custom dictates a warrior adopted into a new Clan in such a fashion is released from his past and now owes loyalty only to the Clan adopting him, Broll's past as a Capellan renegade bears mention. Having gone AWOL from the CCAF, Broll—a MechWarrior in the Confederation—attempted to smuggle his 'Mech into The Republic, intending to trade it for citizenship and land, but his valuable cargo was reclaimed short of the border.

Commentary

The JES III Missile Carrier only began production recently, with a handful of production runs shipping out of the assembly plant on Zebebelgenubi for use by the Republic Army before the HPG network crashed. Designed to be the middle ground between the lighter JES and the heavier JES II, the JES III is slow, but well armored and better armed for its role as battlefield support.

Two gunners typically operate the vehicle's weapons, allowing for independent targeting and firing or concentrated, coordinated fire, but Broll Wolf, currently assigned to the JES III designated by serial number ROS0011-412, prefers his gunners to select the same target as often as possible for maximum effect. His JES, which bears the nickname of "MechBane," almost never takes to the field loaded with standard LRM munitions. Choosing to hunt heavier armored units, such as vehicles and 'Mechs, Broll keeps his JES III loaded with special armor-piercing munitions.
