separation, the years that followed saw Czupek—while still proving himself a good student and warrior candidate—gradually beginning to lose some of his rigid discipline. Though his occasional tantrums, brief yet fierce, have not quite been diagnosed as a mental disorder, there are those within House Kamata who genuinely fear for Czupek’s future.

'MECH: Yu Huang

Inducted into the ranks of House Kamata at age 8, Andrzej Czupek was perhaps the youngest aspirant to be tied to a Warrior House in over 80 years. His selection was prompted by his remarkable self-discipline, a trait he likely absorbed from his parents, both of whom were active-duty officers in the CCAF and devout students of the Lorix Order. In becoming a part of House Kamata, Czupek effectively succeeded where his parents failed in their own childhoods, but in so doing, he lost virtually all contact with his family. Possibly as a result of this

Commentary

House Liao’s powerful Yu Huang assault 'Mech first appeared as part of its Xin Sheng ("Rebirth") national revival program, emerging from one of several BattleMech producers that were restored or activated with the help of the Word of Blake. Designed with a distinctly Capellan flavor, the Yu Huang was among the heaviest of these new machines, and it packed an appropriately powerful array of heavy weapons in its heavily armored and highly mobile frame.

CC337-15A (nicknamed "Eraser") is the Yu Huang piloted by Andrzej Czupek of the Confederation’s Warrior House Kamata. Produced during the Jihad, where it saw numerous engagements, this slight variant mounts a devastating ultra autocannon and a mix of standard lasers for crippling punch at medium range. In combat against enemy 'Mechs, Czupek must often get close in to use his weapons, and relies mostly on his lasers, reserving the massive autocannon in for a lethal point-blank blast.
